

ABSTRACT

Electric fields are applied parallel to and/or vertical to the interfaces on adjacent microfluid lamellae made of nonmiscible media containing said biomolecules and bioparticles (24) to which they have different physico-chemical affinities in order to separate biomolecules and bioparticles (24) and the biomolecules and bioparticles (24) are electrophoretically separated.